BACKGROUND

eRx Script Exchange is an industry-driven collaboration established to improve health outcomes for Australians.

Led by Fred Health, it is being developed with the e-health expertise of Simpli New Zealand and Microsoft Australia, and rolled out throughout Australia in collaboration with leading software vendors.

Health Minister Nicola Roxon received a hands-on demonstration of sending and dispensing electronic prescriptions via eRx as part of Ask Your Pharmacist Week.

Speaking at the official launch at the Altona Meadows Amcal Pharmacy on 2 September, Ms Roxon said, "Pharmacists are often the first to see consumers who are seeking information about and assistance with their health care. They help people take responsibility for their own health by supporting and reinforcing health literacy and healthy practices."

"The recent report from the National Health and Hospital Reform Commission highlights the need for all Australians to be able to access medicines and appropriate pharmaceutical services. Community pharmacies help achieve this via a network of around 5,000 pharmacies across Australia," she said.

eRx wins prestigious Microsoft award

eRx Script Exchange and Fred Health have been named Microsoft Australian Health Industry Partner of the Year 2009 in recognition of industry-wide achievements in creating a national platform for e-scripts.

The Microsoft Industry Partner awards recognize the highest level of performance in developing and delivering innovative solutions based on Microsoft technology. They are awarded to solutions with demonstrated widespread benefits and application; as well as showcasing business and technological innovation to ensure interoperability and the ability to scale to meet long-term growth.

Dr David Dembo, Leader - Health and Human Services, Microsoft Australia, says "eRx won this award for both the innovation they and their partners showed in moving the Australian Health reform agenda forward, as well as their intelligent use of commoditised IT building blocks to ensure IT played a role in reducing the risk of the overall project."

Paul Naismith, CEO, Fred Health, said "We are honored to be awarded Microsoft Australian Health Industry Partner of 2009.
